

Hey there! That's me! My name is Charis Drampa and I am 15 years old. I attend the first grade of senior high school of Aristotle College.

My passion and fervor for dance cannot be concealed and I could easily describe latin dance as a form of communication in a unique way

I have a lovely sister called Vayalena, who's a student at the department of Molecular Biology and Genetics

I enjoy traveling and getting in touch with other countries and cultures. I also like participating in projects such as MUN conferences because it gives me the opportunity to interact with other teens and finding solutions. These are the reasons why I am more than thrilled for participating in this Erasmus project

This is my best friend and her name is Nicole. I enjoy spending time with her because of her bright sense of humor.
